RUSS BATTER THROUGH AUSTRIA LINE NEAR RIGA SAYS PETROGRAD STORY

SLAVS LAY CLAIM TO STEADY ADVANCE TOWARD HUNGARY

BERLIN, via wireless to Sayville, July 24.—Austrian troops south of Tatarov withdrew in the face of a strong advance of Russian troops, according to official announcement in the Vienna communiqué of yesterday, made public here today.

PETROGRAD, July 24.—Russian armies have blasted and battered their way through the German line below Riga and have shattered temporarily the Austrian resistance to further a Russian advance toward northeastern Galicia and Hungary. Violent German counter attacks northeast of Kovno have been repulsed. Today a violent artillery duel was in progress between the forces of Generals Kuropatkin and Von Hindenburg along the northeastern most point of the battle front.

So far the censors have veiled the exact details of General Kuropatkin's recent coup, but the fact that the czar's troops have been able successfully to pierce Von Hindenburg's line—considered the strongest to which the Russians are opposed, was hailed here as one of the striking achievements of the war.

Further details today served to accentuate the extent of the victories of General Saharoff along the rivers Lipa and Styr. Apparently his forces have almost encircled the Teutonic commands of Generals Boehm-Ermoldi and Rothman, forcing their retirement. Russian troops now dominate both banks of the Lipa from the Styr to near Mirkow and in some parts of the line have thrust forward eight or ten miles beyond the river. Brody is menaced with an enveloping movement.

Southward Russian forces control many of the approaches to Jablonitz Pass, and have forced retirement of the Austrians to rests of the hills beyond. Probably the conflict today is in the pass itself. Considerable booty has fallen into the Russian hands and in two days 27,000 men have been captured.

To emphasize Russian successes came full report today of more advances of the Grand Duke Nicholas' army in the Caucasus. The Turks are in full retreat all the full line toward Erzingan.

FIND THREE DEAD MURDER MYSTERY IN LAKE FOREST

LAKE FOREST, Ill., July 24.—Side by side in the little morgue here today lay the body of a man of 24, a woman of 22, and a babe of six months. They all died of pistol shots, apparently fired by the man. The bodies were found early yesterday on the grounds of the Onwentsia club, near here. Two young society girls, taking an early morning horse-back ride, made the grim discovery. The local authorities believed that the man came from Flint, Mich., as his hat contained a Flint, Mich., dealer's name, and bore the initials "L. A. C." Early today the police had not received information from Flint confirming any identification, but believe that the man had been employed by the Buick Motor company at Flint.

Hanna Jensen, keeper of a boarding house, said the three came to her as boarders a few days ago. They were known to her simply as Lloyd, Norma and Baby Arthur. There was little to indicate the relationship, but they quarreled over the baby, which was apparently hated by Lloyd. When the bodies were found, the man and woman lay beside the road, three feet apart. About twenty feet away the baby was found. It had little clothing on and had been shot through the head. A pistol was found in the man's hand.

MASHEK IS AGAIN NAMED DIRECTOR OF STATE LABOR

Alderman Frank Mashek, La Crosse, was re-elected one of the five directors of the State Federation of Labor at the state convention which closed in Fond du Lac Saturday. State Secretary and Treasurer J. J. Hanley and State Organizer John Rae, John Greenman, Joseph Raith and Charles Hoffling, upon their return to the city reported the largest and most interesting convention in history, with many labor leaders from other states in attendance. The 1917 convention will be at Ashland.

BRITISH ANSWER ON MAIL PROTEST UNSATISFACTORY

Uncle Sam to Send Another Request for Reply Meeting the Issue Raised

GAVE BRITISH BLACK LIST U. S. Anger Roused by English Use of Information Gained by Opening of the Letters

WASHINGTON, July 24.—The state department will immediately acknowledge to Ambassador Page at London receipt of the mail reply from Great Britain and inform him that it is not considered a response to the American note. The Note Came to Washington yesterday.

The request for an early reply on the principles involved will be repeated. This was the official declaration at the state department today.

The British reply received yesterday will be given out for publication some time today. Direct relation between the British mail seizures and black listing of American firms was pointed out by state department officials today. The extreme irritation which the administration feels over England's delay in answering the mail note is partially because it was through the alleged illegal practice on which the black list was compiled.

The preliminary reply received is altogether unsatisfactory because it ignores the contention of principle in the American note and deals only with specific cases which have no immediate bearing on the demand for reform.

At the state department, officials today smiled at stories to the effect the government would provide government vessels to convey merchant ships carrying goods of black listed merchants.

"The black list difficulty will be adjusted," Senator Hoke Smith of Georgia declared today after a talk with the president.

"I believe Great Britain will withdraw either the whole or the major part of this black list order," he said.

Smith has been a leader of the opposition in this country to England's blockade policies, most of which opposition has been unsuccessful. The fact that he sees defeat for the present British plan was regarded as significant.

"That policy is so foolish that I think even Great Britain will appreciate it," said the senator. To other callers today, the president admitted the blacklist difficulty had "got on his nerves."

He indicated, however, that the method of handling it had not been determined.

FORMER MINISTERS OF MANITOBA GO ON TRIAL

WINNIPEG, Man., July 24.—After several postponements, three ex-ministers of the Manitoba government, Sir Redmond Roblin, ex-premier; G. R. Caldwell, former minister of public works, and Hon. H. J. Howden, attorney general, were placed on trial here today, charged with theft of money and documents in connection with construction of Manitoba parliament buildings.

FRENCH AVIATOR FLIES ALMOST ACROSS GERMANY

PARIS, July 24.—A French aviator, Antoine Marchal, who started from Nancy on an aeroplane trip to Russia via Berlin, failed in his aerial race by a bare sixty miles, according to word here today. He was captured by the Germans at Cholm, in Poland, after having dropped proclamations on Berlin.

Nancy lies on the French Alsace-Lorraine frontier. Cholm is in Russian Poland, fifty miles north of the

POLICE ARREST A SAILOR Notes to Papers Declare Bomb Protest Against Militaristic Propaganda

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., July 24.—At least six persons were killed and forty-four or more were injured by the explosion here Saturday of a timed bomb in the midst of a throng viewing a preparedness parade.

The police arrested Frank Josephson, a lodger in a sailors' boarding house, who cried, "I didn't do it. I didn't do it," and trembled violently when he was being searched at the station. The police said he had not been accused of anything. Charles M. Flicker, district attorney, issued a statement, attributing the deed to a mind unbalanced by arguments for and against preparedness, which have occupied attention here. The parade was not interrupted.

Lists of dead and injured as compiled by the police are:

The dead: Mrs. H. E. Knapp, Alameda, Cal. Dr. George Painter, Berkeley, Cal. O. H. Lamborn, printer, Alameda, Cal.

George Lawlor, Millvalley, Cal. Arthur Nelson, Larkspur, Cal. Adam Fox, San Francisco.

Seriously injured:

H. E. Knapp, lacerations, legs and body; Mrs. Kingsley Van Loo, Oakland, lacerations, both legs, internal injuries; Harry Turnbull, retired manager of the Family club, fractured skull; Miss Pearl Seeman, 19, Oakland, leg blown off; Mrs. L. O. Wyomere, Oakland, leg blown off; the leg amputated; Henry J. Claussen, Alameda, right leg fractured, body lacerated and bruised.

Occurs in Main Street

The explosion occurred at Stewart and Market streets, two blocks from the ferry building on San Francisco's main thoroughfare. The bomb, concealed in a suitcase packed with cartridges, bullets, gas pipe, glass and scrap iron, blew a gap through the crowd, blasting men, women, children and babies.

The one story brick building against which the suit case stood was wrecked.

The holiday crowd, cheering a contingent of veterans of the First California Infantry of the Spanish-American war, became a shambles. The blast of fifty hands and the roar of drums drowned the cries of the injured, but the sidewalk was strewn with torn bodies.

"Two women standing beside me were blown to bits," said one woman. Mrs. Kingsley Van Loom of Oakland, with her two children, was injured. The police say it is possible that some bodies were blown out of existence.

Newspaper offices on Friday received a communication written in Roman script with an indelible pencil, many of the words being heavily underscored. The communication was signed: "The Determined Exiles from Militaristic Government, Italy, Germany, United States, Italy, Russia."

In several instances the writer repeated himself.

Warn of Explosion

"Editor: Our protests have been in vain in regards to this preparedness propaganda, so we are going to use a little direct action on the twenty-second which will echo around the earth and show that Frisco really knows how and that militarism can not be forced on us and our children without violent protest.

RAIN CALLS OFF DRILL AT CAMP OF LOCAL BOYS

Texas Gumbo Such a Sticky Batter That It Is Impossible for Troops to March

HEAT NOT OPPRESSIVE DRY Atmosphere Makes 110 Degrees Less Oppressive Than 90 Degrees in Wisconsin

WASHINGTON, July 24.—Thirty thousand militiamen on the border are living under excellent conditions and the men themselves denounce reports to the contrary as falsehoods. General Bliss today reported to the war department after an inspection trip that extended to camps containing that many soldiers.

CAMP WILSON, Texas, July 24.—(Special to The TRIBUNE)—A rainstorm which started at 10:30 on Saturday morning and continued until 1:30 brought an abrupt halt to Colonel Richards' plans for the Third regiment. The order of the day was to be drill, but J. Pluvius made such a batter out of the surface of the parade ground that the order was countermanded. It is not possible to have snappy drill when three steps coats each shoe with ten pounds of Texas gumbo that sticketh closer than a brother.

Mules Save Day

The rain also made dinner a couple of hours late. The auto trucks which carry provisions bogged down hub deep, and many of them couldn't pull out. The old army mule came back into his own, however, and got the supplies to the companies before starvation had decimated them.

All of the men who had not reported for their last inoculation with the anti-typhoid serum were rounded up Saturday and given their "shot in the arm."

ASSERT BRITISH THRUST GOES ON ABOUT POZIERES

LONDON, July 24.—Amid a blast of artillery fire hurled from big guns, British forces have advanced still further in their thrust around Pozieres. General Sir Douglas Haig reported today. The fighting is continuing with the advantage with the British. We took two guns and sixty more prisoners.

General Haig said that repeated German attacks made yesterday between Hilt wood and Guillemont had been without success and that British artillery and machine guns had inflicted heavy casualties.

Paris today declared that the battle along the Guillemont-Pozieres line was continuing and at midnight the British held the advantage.

Successful resumption of General Haig's massed infantry "push" within the short space of three days after the initial effort had advanced the British lines to within striking distance of the German third line trenches brought great satisfaction in London today.

Special dispatches emphasized the terrific hand-to-hand fighting raging around Guillemont. Half of the village is in British hands, but in the other half the Teutons are strongly dug in and fighting desperately.

Denied in Berlin

BERLIN, July 24.—British troops failed to obtain any decisive foothold in their offensive along the Pozieres sector, the war office statement declared today. "The only advantage the British obtained yesterday, along the line from Thiéval to Guillemont, was at Pozieres, where they penetrated a few houses," the statement asserted.

The statement added that the engagement at Pozieres had cost the British heavily in dead and wounded. Southwest of Guillemont the British forces intrenched in a quarry were dislodged and driven out by the Brandenburghers.

Along the French battle front enemy operations at Soyecourt and west of Verdun failed. On the right bank of the Meuse the French artillery fire was described as "intense."

On the eastern front the communiqué said enemy attacks northwest of Berestzko had been repulsed.

German Planes in Raid

PARIS, July 24.—Extraordinary aerial activity on both sides of the French-German battle line was reported in the official communiqué today. Luneville was the object of a German air raid.

A French aerial raider on Sunday dropped eight bombs on Conflans station and a number of others on buildings at Dieuse and Vigneulle. Aviator Chaput brought down on Sunday his eighth German aeroplane in a combat near Fresnes.

Driver Still Unconscious and Is Thought Internally Injured After Smash Last Saturday

AUTOMOBILE DEMOLISHED Crashes Into a Slow-moving Car at Sixteenth and Winnebago Streets

Norman Knutsen, 1229 Winnebago street, employee of the Advance Bedding company, is unconscious; Floyd Johnson, aged 9, 1502 Adams street, is suffering with a badly bruised head; Otto Heideman, another employee of the bedding company, has one rib broken, and the Ford delivery truck which Knutsen was driving is almost a total wreck as the result of a collision with the head-end of a south-bound Sixteenth street car at the corner of Winnebago and Sixteenth streets early Sunday morning.

Going Fast

Knutsen took the automobile from the Advance Bedding company's garage. Witnesses say he was driving at a rate in excess of thirty-five miles an hour when he struck the street car. The car was in charge of Motorman Paul Lysacker and Conductor Adolph Byer.

Others in the car were: Charles Childers, 40, Joseph Burynski, 13, 1215 South Fifth street.

Richard Brown, 14, 1517 Farnam street.

George Brown, 22, 1517 Farnam street.

Rudolph Rank, 13, 1502 Adams street.

Adolph Johnson, 1227 South Eighth street.

Knutsen and the other men were taking the boys on a ride around the city and on the State road. Floyd Johnson was sitting on the knee of Adolph Johnson, his uncle.

Police say the men had stopped at a saloon on State road. They are said to have started towards La Crosse shortly after 7 o'clock. Residents of Jackson street saw the machine speeding towards Sixteenth street at a furious rate.

The street car was approaching slowly from Market street. There was a passenger to get aboard at Winnebago (Continued on Page 6, Col. 3)

James Whitcomb Riley.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., July 24.—James Whitcomb Riley, the Indiana poet, died Saturday night.

Mr. Riley suffered from the extreme heat all Saturday, but was thought to be resting easy at night. He asked his nurse for a drink of water at 11 o'clock. When she returned with it he was dead. Death was due to a stroke of paralysis.

Due to Paralysis

Mr. Riley suffered a violent stroke about 7:30 o'clock Saturday morning and the members of his household were greatly alarmed, but under Dr. Carleton B. McCullough's ministrations the poet seemed to improve, and early in the evening was regarded as much better.

Peter Heiser Believed to Have Attacked His Favorite Sister While Insane

ASKED SISTER FOR MONEY Girl at Hospital Today Says Her Brother Had Acted Very Querky for Several Days

Peter Heiser, 34, 1344 Avon street, is lying at the point of death at the La Crosse hospital with several deep razor cuts on both sides of his throat and face.

Heiser's favorite sister, Miss Anna Heiser, 25, is at St. Francis hospital, with three deep gashes on her neck and face.

Thought Insane

Heiser, it is believed, became suddenly insane. He turned on his sister in the parlor of their home at about 10 o'clock Saturday night, attacking her with a razor. The brother slashed at her face, then walked to another part of the room and began cutting his own neck and face with the razor. Blood spouted out from both sides of his throat, but physicians say the wounds were not on the right part of the neck to cause immediate death. They said on Monday that there was a chance for recovery.

After gashing himself, Heiser threw down the razor and ran from the house. He was followed by Carl Schnick, 1105 Caledonia street, and William French, 1345 Avon street. Heiser dashed for the bank of the river. With the blood from his throat almost covering his body he waded into the stream. He walked several yards from the shore, stopped and retraced his steps. He was caught by French and Schnick, who (Continued on Page 6, Col. 2)

DAMAGE TO BOTH SIDES PROBABLY LIGHT IN BATTLE

BERLIN, July 24.—"Our torpedo boats returned from a point close to the mouth of the Thames undamaged after Sunday's short engagement," said an official statement issued here today.

LONDON, July 24.—Six German destroyers, attempting either a raid or a reconnaissance on the British coast, were put to flight by a British sea force in a running fight off Shouwen bank Saturday night and early Sunday, an admiralty statement announced today.

The British patrol vessels, characterized as "light forces" in the statement, met the three enemy destroyers Saturday at midnight near the North Hinder lightship. The squadron retired before the British cruisers were able to inflict any damage on them.

Subsequently, the admiralty said, six enemy destroyers approached and were engaged by the British sea forces in a running fight off Shouwen bank. The German ships were repeatedly hit, it stated, but succeeded in reaching the Belgian coast.

"One of our vessels was hit once, the statement concluded, and two of our men were slightly wounded."

The North Hinder lightship is located off the Belgian coast between Ostend and the mouth of the Scheldt river. Shouwen bank is in the same neighborhood. The action which the admiralty describes, therefore, took place off the Belgian coast. The German vessels engaged presumably came from Zeebrugge, where there is a German destroyer base.

MISS LUCY EDGAR MRS. SILL'S SISTER DIES IN NEW YORK

Mrs. W. R. Sill, 929 State street, has been apprised of the death of her sister, Miss Lucy Edgar, at Saranac Lake, N. Y., where Miss Edgar had been staying with Mrs. C. M. Palmer. Death came at 6 o'clock Monday morning.

Miss Edgar was an early settler in La Crosse and spent much of her life in this city, residing with Mrs. Sill. Of late she has interested herself in relief work for sufferers in the fighting ranks of Europe.

Funeral arrangements have not been completed, but await news of the hour at which Miss Edgar's body will arrive in La Crosse.

A DIFFICULT MISSION

BY NAPOLEON S. ZARICK

(Copyright, 1916, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Both Rowley and Hart have long honored me with their confidences. Even when we were chums at school I was the repository of their secrets, the mediator in their quarrels. I knew that Rowley squirmed under his exclusion from the football team—a fact concealed from every one else; while the keen sorrow which his failure to get into the rowing eight had awakened in the bosom of John Hart was to me an open secret.

It was one day when I sat by my studio window that Rowley and Hart arrived together at my door. Now this was strange. Although equally my friends, they had never been quite friends themselves. Whenever they sought counsel, they had sought it singly. I waved my hand toward the sideboard. You will observe that I am a man of few words. But neither Hart nor yet Rowley was in a mood for it. Unrefreshed, they sat down. Rowley looked at Hart. Hart returned the compliment. Silence ensued.

"Boys," said I, at length, "you had better toss up for who speaks first."

They grinned uneasily and then Rowley, who is, perhaps, just a thought quicker than Hart, opened the conversation.

"Jack," he began, "you know Miss Annie Seymour?"

I nodded affirmatively.

"Well," he continued, "it's about her. You see, we're both very much in love with her—"

"Over head and ears," interpolated Hart.

"We met her at the same party, have known her for the same length of time, and—so far as I can see—have paid her equally pronounced attention."

"And she?" I asked.

Hart took up the thread. "She has been nice—very nice to both of us," he said. "In fact, Jack we cannot decide which of us she prefers. And we don't want to take any unfair advantage."

"That's it!" Rowley exclaimed. "No unfairness—no underhand work. A fair field and no favor. That's why we've come to you."

"But—" I began.

Miss Annie Seymour barely knows me.

"Oh, but she does, and like you, too!" This from Hart.

"Only last night I heard her speak of your 'strong character.' You are the very man to discover her predilections." From from Rowley.

"Boys," said I, "it's a ticklish mission, but I promise you I'll do my best. And now—"

Once more I waved my hand toward the sideboard. This time the Miss Annie Seymour barely knows me. Rowley and Hart rose with alacrity and drank twin glasses to my very good health. Thus I was formally accredited ambassador extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary to the court of Miss Annie Seymour.

"Dear me, Mr. Winton! You have been an unjustifiable time about calling."

"My dear Miss Seymour, one cannot set lightly about important functions."

"And I am a function."

"A very delightful one, Miss Seymour. But, really, you know, I am not much of a caller."

"You call on the muses daily, I am told."

"But they are never at home, I assure you."

"I wish I were a muse," remarked Miss Seymour, with an adorable smile.

"But you are," I protested. "You certainly are—the tenth muse. The muse of—"

"Of afternoon tea, of course. Won't you have some tea, Mr. Winton?"

I seated myself by the tea table, and entered upon my mission.

"By the way," was my first shot. "I saw John Hart yesterday."

"Indeed? Sugar, Mr. Winton?"

"And Bob Rowley, too. Saw them both together."

"Really? Cream, Mr. Winton? I think it is so stupid to put the cream in first."

Both of my shots had failed! For a young woman supposed to be deeply interested in two young men, Miss Seymour's matter-of-fact reception of those young men's names seemed singular indeed. There was no tell-tale blush when I spoke of Hart; no tremor appeared at the mention of Rowley to shake the white hand that held the cream pitcher. Either Miss Seymour had all the nerve of a gambler—or else she was not in love with either of my two friends.

It were useless to detail our conversation. Suffice it that, although I returned again and again to the charge, I failed to arouse in Miss Seymour the slightest evidence of interest either in Hart or Rowley. I spoke of their sterling qualities, recalled instances of brain, brawn and bravery in school, in college and in the busy world. Miss Seymour listened, sometimes commented, occasionally expressed mild approval, but always managed to change the subject.

And the odd part of it was that she changed the subject from my friends' affairs to mine—displaying, indeed, a flattering, if unaccountable, interest in all my humble doings. In the end, I became desperate. Daring tactics, I felt, were the only means at hand.

"Miss Seymour," I said, "you do not seem to be enthusiastic over either Bob Rowley or John Hart?"

Up went Miss Seymour's eyebrows.

"Well, hardly!" she exclaimed. "I don't see why I should be."

"But you like them?"

"Fairly well. They are rather uninteresting young men, you know—the sort of young men one expects to meet everywhere, just as one expects to find tables and chairs. I like tables and chairs when they don't get in my way. I also like Mr. Hart and Mr. Rowley."

This was severe, but yet I did not resign all hope.

"Pardon me," I pleaded, "and pray don't think me curious or rude. I have known those boys all my life. I have the deepest regard for their welfare. Now suppose—just suppose—that one of them were to fall hopelessly in love with a certain Miss Seymour, would there be any hope for him?"

Miss Seymour set down her tea cup and looked at me sternly—that is to say, as severely as she could.

"Mr. Winton," she remarked, "you were asked to come here and put that question to me!"

"No," I said, "not that one—I have overstepped my mission."

"Then there was a mission?"

I began studying the shape of my boots, and wondering which was the foot I had just "put into it."

"Ah, I see I was right. Well, I shall not send you back without an answer. I cannot experience a stronger feeling for any one who does not possess a strong character." I rose with a sigh. It was rather hard on Bob and John, but that "strong character" settled the matter.

Then there was a little final chat as I took my leave. I don't quite know how it came to pass, but just before I departed Miss Seymour asked me, "You don't read your Longfellow, do you Mr. Winton?"

"Well—no," I replied; "not Shakespearially, as one might say."

"Ah! He is not a critic's poet. But you should read him sometimes, if not 'Shakespearially.' There is some really excellent common sense in Longfellow. Goodby Mr. Winton."

About half way down the street I stopped suddenly.

"Longfellow!" I remarked to myself. Longfellow? Now what has schemes? She is not a young woman who makes remarks without reason or connection. And then her look when she said—! I'll swear there is some consoling message for poor Bob and John concealed between the covers of Longfellow?"

And then, all of a sudden, a presumptuous thought set my mind awl.

I hastened home and took down a copy of Longfellow's poems from my library shelf. As fate would have it, I opened the volume at the line, "Why don't you speak for yourself, John?"

About half way down the street I stopped suddenly.

"Longfellow!" I remarked to myself. Longfellow? Now what has schemes? She is not a young woman who makes remarks without reason or connection. And then her look when she said—! I'll swear there is some consoling message for poor Bob and John concealed between the covers of Longfellow?"

And then, all of a sudden, a presumptuous thought set my mind awl.

I hastened home and took down a copy of Longfellow's poems from my library shelf. As fate would have it, I opened the volume at the line, "Why don't you speak for yourself, John?"

Yesterday's Temperatures

High, 91; low, 72; precipitation, 0.

Forecasts

For Wisconsin: Generally fair tonight and probably Tuesday. Cooler tomorrow.

For Minnesota: Partly cloudy tonight; probably showers northwest portion; cooler northeast portion.
Tuesday showers.

For Iowa: Partly cloudy tonight and Tuesday; probably showers Tuesday northwest portion. Somewhat cooler tonight extreme east portion.

Weather Conditions

Generally fair weather prevails this morning in all sections, with high temperature in the Mississippi valley and from the upper lakes to the north Atlantic coast and somewhat lower temperature throughout the northwest.

Precipitation during the past 24 hours has been confined mostly to the Gulf and south Atlantic states.

A moderate depression is central in the southwest and areas of relatively high pressure are central over the Dakotas and Minnesota, and over the north Pacific states.

These pressure conditions indicate generally fair and cooler weather for tonight and probably generally fair weather Tuesday.

WORKING WHILE IDLE

The Trade Extension bureau of the City of New York has lately opened up a vocational clinic which provides a place where the city's unemployed commercial workers may gather for the purpose of maintaining speed and skill in their work. This skill depends upon being in practice and is threatened by lack of employment. Typewriters, multigraph devices, filing cabinets and other office equipment are provided in this department.
Those who attend receive special instructions in salesmanship, English, business psychology and other subjects which add to their general efficiency and enable them in many cases to fill positions that would have been impossible but for this free instruction given to them during enforced idleness.

Two Negroes were discussing the European war. One of them said: "I heard dem Frenchmens got some cannons what can hit and kill a man fifteen miles away."

The other replied: "Das nothin', nigger, dem Gummuns got some guns, too. All dey want to know is your address and dey will get you."

Teacher—Harry, suppose I had a watermelon and gave one-sixth to Johnny, one-sixth to Tommy, one-sixth to Willie and took one-half of it myself; what would be left?

Harry (promptly)—I would.

THE RED CROSS
IN LA CROSSE

The La Crosse chapter of the American Red Cross society is giving publicity to a series of articles calculated to make plain the plans and purposes of the organization and one feels that the patriotic character of their enterprise entitles them to a fair hearing and earnest support. That one of these articles which appears in this number of the TRIBUNE is particularly important in that it contains detailed information and instructions with which all who expect to participate must become familiar.

Women are fortunate that there is open to them service as worthy, as loyal, as courageous as any that falls to the lot of men in war, but confined to the amelioration of conditions and alleviation of suffering as contrasted with the destructive elements of warfare. Men are fortunate in the patriotic sisterhood equipped by nature for those gentler ministrations that mean so much to those who fall in the ruck and ruin that lies in the wake of war.

By all means avoid the error that this work is war propaganda. Our women are opposed to war. They hate and deprecate war. But if war is thrust upon them they want to be ready for that call to duty which true womanhood eagerly accepts—the call of humanity directed to their tender patriotism.

Truly it is a worthy ambition, a worthy cause. Aroused by the terrible spectacle that has been thrust upon the suffering people of Europe, the men of America are astir, preparing with what folly or wisdom God only knows. And when men prepare to fight, women must prepare to succor and to nurse. The making of guns and bandages are inseparable. We may question the wisdom of the former, but if we have the former, the wisdom of the latter challenges denial. And so, since we are making ships and guns, the call that comes to the women is unmistakable and compelling. The devil may have ordered the shrapnel, but God demands the "first aid". He is the Captain General of the Red Cross.

OUR MILITARY
INEFFICIENCY

With the increasing probability that a peaceful way will be found out of the Mexican crisis, the mobilization and movement of the citizen soldiery to the border by degrees loses its primary character as a herald of hostilities, and assumes the aspect of a gigantic test of Uncle Sam's readiness for national emergency. If the troops shall not be needed against an enemy, the expense of their concentration and maintenance will not be altogether lost if it bring to light defects which can be remedied against the time when flaws of administration and technique may spell irretrievable disaster.

The experience of the Wisconsin brigade in the mobilization defines a necessity which seems to have been general with every state guard called to the colors. The Badger militia is recognized as among the most efficient in the nation, but it could not move for a fortnight after it was ordered out. Modern warfare emphasizes the importance of striking first. When crack troops cannot get to the front in less than two weeks, it is apparent that changes are needed.

The fault lay not with the Wisconsin military. They were comfortably in camp at the state reservation ten hours after the hour set for beginning mobilization. Had they been supplied with war strength equipment by the government as expeditiously, they could have been on the border at least ten days earlier. But in this, as in the details of federal examination and mustering-in, the regular army organization broke down. There was confusion of inefficiency and positive ignorance. Orders were slow and contradictory, equipment long delayed. The experience furnished a dreary contrast with the precision and promptness the state guard displayed in getting to its mobilization camps.

On the border the situation has been much the same. Mules, horses, arms, uniforms, tentage—even food—has been inadequate. It is a significant lesson concerning our state of administrative unreadiness. Plans for carrying out the mobilization seem to have been either of the most sketchy vagueness, or else wonderfully misconceived.

While the army is being re-organized, while annual expenditures for matters military are being multiplied many times, it were well to pay attention to the faults of inefficiency presenting themselves along the Rio Grande.

PRESIDENT WILSON
NEEDS "QUICK ACTION"

While it may lack such illustrious (if not congenially associated) names as that of Judge Taft and Justice Brandeis, the commission plan by which President Wilson hopes to settle the Mexican situation answers the suggestion of the "Independent" before that suggestion was made public, although after it had been sent to the printers.

The Mexican border presents the gravest acute problem which President Wilson must deal with during his campaign. The claim that "watchful waiting" is a policy of negligence, although debatable, is not without logic. Always it is easy to criticize the man who must deal with the future, in the light of the past. The exception is where the past shows that intelligence penetrated the future and with prophetic wisdom solved its problem. To get some tangible results in Mexico is vastly important to civilization; to get them before November is a project of grave political concern to the president. If he shall succeed, society will not complain if the fact shall inure to his personal advantage.

A "BADGER" OUT WHERE THE WEST BEGINS

La Crosse friends will be glad to learn of the warm endorsement with which the press in his Wyoming district has greeted the announcement that Judge E. C. Raymond, of Sundance, that state, is a candidate for re-election to the circuit bench. It is a pleasure to see former La Crosse men occupying important positions of trust in other states, and his Wyoming constituents are not more proud of this able young lawyer's record than are we who reluctantly gave him to our younger sister state.

No Need for C. R. A.

A small tradesman once put up the following sign in his shop: "Please don't ask for credit, as a refusal often offends."

Finding that this had little effect, and that his credit book was attaining great proportions, he resolved on trying another plan, and immediately fixed up another notice in place of the former one: "The names and addresses of all those who buy goods at this shop and don't pay for them can be seen in the credit book on payment of a fee of five cents."

The result was miraculous. Not only did the curious pay their nickels by the dozen, but those owing accounts speedily settled them until the credit book was a thing of the past.

The Chaplain's Duty

A representative in congress took a friend from home one afternoon, says the Washington Times. As the friend looked down upon the scene his gaze rested upon the clerical garb of a man in front of the vice president's chair.

Since he seemed particularly interested, the representative explained. "That's Rev. F. J. Prettyman, the chaplain of the senate."

"Oh, he prays for the senate, does he?" asked the friend.

"No," said the representative. "he takes a look at the senate and then prays for the country."

How Fast Can You Say It?

Katherine and Margaret were seated next to each other at a dinner party, and immediately became confidential.

"Molly told me that you told her that secret I told you not to tell," whispered Kate.

"Oh, the mean thing," gasped Margaret. "I told her not to tell you."

"Well," returned Kate, "I told her I wouldn't tell you she told me, so don't tell her that I did tell you."—The Waterville Sentinel.

(By Nicksab)

MARTINSBURG

There is no trout fishing at Martinsburg, W. Va. Likewise there is no typhoid fever to speak of, and the city has one of the best water supplies that belongs to any town of its size in the United States.

There is a good deal of a story tied up in these two seemingly unnecessary and apparently unrelated statements, and the moral of the story seems to be that you cannot have your nickel and also ride on a jitney bus, as Solomon said.

Martinsburg, which is a fine prosperous little town of about 11,000 inhabitants, sits on a bunch of pretty green hills, and a nice little brook bubbles right through the middle of it. Now it once occurred to some enterprising Martinsburger that trout would live in that creek and that if such were the case many anglers and other strange people would be led to come to those parts and live in the hotels of Martinsburg, and place checkmarks in the pockets of the good people. And so a number of hundred thousand very young rainbow trout were procured from that arm of the government at Washington known as the fish commission. These were set at large in Tuscarora creek, and they grew large and people came from afar to angle for them, even as the prophet of Martinsburg had foreseen.

But just about the time these golden fishes reached the legal age of six inches, there came to Martinsburg a representative of another arm of the great government at Washington, to wit, the public health service, and this man found that there swam in Tuscarora creek, not only trout, but also germs of typhoid fever. And so he called a meeting of all the townspeople and he showed them a movie in which typhoid germs as big as dinosaurs crawled across the screen, and the people were scared, and took heed, and asked the man what to do. And he told them that they should cover the spring which fed Tuscarora creek, and should put therein a certain chloride which kills germs. And when this was done the typhoid germs disappeared, and likewise the fish. So there are no more trout in Martinsburg, though some suckers still come there with fishing rods.

"She certainly is! Carol is quite different, but she is so sweet-spirited and vivacious, and—unsnobbish, if you know what that means—that every one in high school, and even the grammar-grade children, idolize her. She is very witty, but her wit is always innocent and kind. She never hurts any one's feelings. And she is never impertinent. The professors are as crazy about her as the scholars—forgive the slang. Did the twins ever tell you what happened the first day of school?"

"No—tell me," Prudence was clearly very anxious.

"I shall never forget it. The freshmen were sent into the recitation room to confer with Professor Duke about text-books, etc. Carol was one of the first in the line, as they came out. She sat down in her seat in the first aisle, with one foot out at the side. One of the boys tripped over it. 'Carol,' said Miss Adams gently, 'you forgot yourself, didn't you?'

And Carol's eyes twinkled as she said, 'Oh, no, Miss Adams, if I had I'd still be in the recitation room.'"

Miss Allen laughed, but Prudence's eyes were agonized.

"How hateful of her!"

"Don't the twins tell you little things that happen at school—like that, for instance?"

"Never! I supposed they were perfectly all right."

"Well, here's another. Twice a week we have talks on First Aid to the Injured. Professor Duke conducts them. One day he asked Carol what she would do if she had a very severe cold, and Carol said, 'I'd soak my feet in hot water and go to bed. My sister makes me.'"

Miss Allen laughed again, but Prudence was speechless.

"Sometimes we have talks on normal work, practical informal discussions. Many of our scholars will be country school-teachers, you know. Miss Adams conducts these normal hours. One day she asked Carol what she would do if she had applied for a school, and was asked by the directors to write a thesis on student discipline, that they might judge of her and her ability by it? Carol said, 'I'd get Lark to write it for me.'"

Even Prudence laughed a little at this, but said, "Why don't you scold her?"

"We talked it all over shortly after she entered school. Miss Adams did not understand Carol at first, and thought she was a little impertinent. But Professor Duke and I stood firm against even mentioning it to her. She is perfectly good-natured about it. You know, of course, Miss Starr, that we really try to make individuals of our scholars. So many, many hundreds are turned out of the schools all cut on one pattern. I do not like it. We fight against it. Carol is different from others by nature, and we're going to keep her different if possible. If we crush her individuality, she will come out just like thousands of others—all one pattern! Miss Adams is as fond of Carol now as any one of us. You understand that we could not let impudence or impertinence pass unproved, but Carol is never guilty of that. She is always respectful and courteous. But she is spontaneous and quick-witted, and we are glad of it. Do you know what the scholars call Professor Duke?"

"Professor Duck," said Prudence humbly. "But they mean it for a compliment. They really admire and like him very much. I hope he does not know what they call him."

"He does! One day he was talking about the nobility system in England. He explained the difference between dukes, and earls, and lords, etc., and told them who is to be addressed as Your Majesty, Your Highness, Your Grace and so on. Then he said, 'Now, Carol, if I was the king's eldest son, what would you call me?'

And Carol said, 'I'd still call you a Duck. Professor—it wouldn't make any difference to me.'"

Prudence could only sigh.

"One other time he was illustrating phenomena. He explained the idea, and tried to get one of the boys to mention the word—phenomenon. The boy couldn't think of it. Professor gave three or four illustrations, and still the boy couldn't remember it. 'Oh, come now,' professor said, finally, 'something unusual, something very much out of the ordinary! Suppose you should see a blackbird running a race down the street with a sparrow, what would you call it? The boy couldn't imagine, and professor said, 'What would you call that, Carol?' Carol said, 'A bad dream.'"

Prudence smiled wearily.

"Sometimes we have discussions of moral points. We take turns about conducting them, and try to stimulate their interest in such things. We want to make them think, every one for himself. One day Professor Duke said, 'Suppose a boy in this town has a grudge against you—unjust and unfair. You have tried one thing after another to change his attitude. But he continues to annoy and inconvenience and even hurt you, on every occasion. Remember that you have tried every ordinary way of winning his good will. Now what are you going to do as a last resort?' Carol said, 'I'll tell papa on him.'"

Miss Allen laughed again, heartily. "It does have a disturbing effect on the class. I admit, and often spoils a good point. But Professor Duke calls on Carol every time he sees her eyes twinkle! He does it on purpose. And Miss Adams is nearly as bad as he. One day she said, 'Suppose you have unintentionally done something to greatly irritate and inconvenience a Mlle. Ottawa being "killed" by lion in movies.

The above photograph, showing a big, blood-thirsty lion about to eat up a very nice looking young woman, was taken recently during the rehearsal of a moving picture which may be entitled, "Love in the Jungle." Mlle. Ottawa is the fair "victim." She is an animal trainer and is assisting Captain Jack Banavista in training this lion and other animals.

The training of a lion to be a moving picture star has many dangers, but Mlle. Ottawa is not afraid. She knows her animals well, and lying beneath the King of Beasts has no terrors for her. She is equally fearless in the presence of tigers, bears and leopards.

Syd and Charles
Still Best of Pals

To contradict the many reports regarding family differences, both Charles and Syd Chaplin have issued a formal denial that there has been any trouble between them. It was reported recently that they had come to the parting of the ways, and that their joint interests were terminated, once and for all. Syd Chaplin is negotiating with several concerns for the making of a series of comedy releases and, in the meantime, has banked $75,000 given him by his brother in appreciation of his services as business manager. Judging from their past records, the worst thing that could happen to the younger of the Chaplin family would be to lose the advice and business direction of his shrewder elder brother.

Dorothy Kelly, she of the Vita graph fame, is preparing to take the final plunge into the sea of matrimony. Miss Kelly displays a diamond ring of purest ray serene and modestly announces that Harvey Haveron, a New York real estate man, is the lucky individual. The date of the ceremony has not been fixed.

Jean Stuart, who is rapidly coming to the front as a screen actress, was formerly on the speaking stage, having appeared in support of John Mason in "As a Man Thinks." Miss Stuart is now writing scenarios as well as acting. Her first photoplay will be entitled, "As a Woman Thinks."

prominent man in town. He knows you did it, and he is very angry. He is a man of sharp temper and disagreeable manners. You know that he will be extremely unpleasant and insulting if you go to him with explanations and apologies. What are you going to do?" "I think I'll just keep out of his way for a few weeks," said Carol soberly.

"I hope she doesn't talk like that to you, Miss Allen."

Instantly Miss Allen was grave. "No, she does not, I am so sorry." Leaning forward suddenly, she said, "Miss Starr, why do the twins dislike me?"

"Dislike you!" echoed Prudence. "Why, they do not dislike you! What in the world made you think—"

"Oh, yes indeed they do—both of them. Now, why? People generally like me. I have always been popular with my students. This is my second year here. Last year the whole high school stood by me as one man. This year, the freshmen started as usual. After one week, the twins changed. I knew it instantly. Then other freshmen changed. Now the whole class comes as near snubbing me as they dare. Do you mean to say they have never told you about it?"

"Indeed they have not. And I am sure you are mistaken. They do like you. They like everybody."

"Christian tolerance, perhaps," smiled Miss Allen ruefully. "But I want them to like me personally and intimately. I can help the twins. I can do them good. I know I can. But they won't let me. They keep me at arm's length. They are both dear, and I love them. But they freeze me to death! Why?"

"I can't believe it!"

"But it is true. Don't they talk of their professors at home at all?"

"Oh, often."

"What do they say of us?"

"Why, they say Miss Adams is a perfectly sweet old lamb—they do not mean to be disrespectful. And they say Professor Duke is the dearest duck! They almost swear by 'Professor Duck'!"

"And what do they say of me?"

"Prudence hesitated, thinking hard. 'Come now, what do they say? We must get to the bottom of this.'"

"Why, they have said that you are very pretty, and most unbelievably smart."

"Oh! Quite a difference between sweet old lamb, and the dearest duck, and being very pretty and smart! Do you see it?"

"Yes," confessed Prudence reluctantly, "but I hadn't thought of it before."

BAND CONCERT ON SATURDAY OPENS CARNIVAL WEEK

The Ed A. Evans Greater shows arrived in this city Sunday afternoon for a week's exhibition under the auspices of the North Side Amusement association.

The Evans shows are presenting fifteen attractions, including a monster silodrome where dare devil riders race around a perpendicular wall at the rate of eighty miles an hour performing seemingly impossible feats.

All the attractions will open to night at 7:30, preceded by a concert of popular music by the Royal Italian band.

The concert rendered by the company band last night at Copeland park was well received by a large audience. This band is featured with the shows assisted by Miss Julia Hutchinson, the youngest band singer in the show business.

The Queen contest being run in conjunction with the carnival closes on the grounds Wednesday night. The leaders are fighting hard to hold their own and indications point to a dark horse sneaking in near the end to win the much coveted prize.

Standings in the Queen contest, which closes Wednesday evening, are as follows:

Minnie Will, 1518 votes; Barbara Sam, 730 votes; Elsie Marquardt, 99 votes; Mable McKibbin, 95 votes; Annie Klinia, 94 votes; Emma Franc, 93 votes; Ethel Schrader, 89 votes; Mable Girty, 65 votes; Martha Ruhl, 65 votes; Mae Phiefer, 65 votes.

THREE INNINGS ENOUGH TO WIN FOR THE NELSONS

Members of the Nelson Clothing company nine are thanking their stars today that the manager of the Whitehall team did not put Lambertson into the box until the fourth inning in their game at Whitehall Sunday. By that time the Nelsons had piled up ten runs off Steen, who started the game, and had the contest on ice. After the third, the Nelsons got only two hits, and neither brought a run.

The final score was 10 to 6. Big Bill King, pitching for the Nelsons, pitched a handy, even game, and kept the Whitehall hits scattered pretty well.

Batteries were for Whitehall, Steen and Knutson, Lambertson and Haug; for the Nelsons, King and Childress.

The Nelsons play Whitehall a return game at League park here next Sunday.

CHURCH IS PACKED TO HEAR DR. D. C. JONES' RESIGNATION

SOLEMN SILENCE AS LOVED LEADER GIVES FAREWELL

Dr. D. C. Jones

Intense heat and many absences from the city notwithstanding, the First Presbyterian church was filled Sunday morning when Dr. D. C. Jones, for eight years its pastor, arose to deliver the sermon at the close of which he tendered his resignation and announced his pending removal to Neenah, Wisconsin, where he has accepted a call to service.

Reverend Jones discussed the power and compassion of Christ as elements both essential in a Saviour, exemplifying these phases of the Master's personality by His miracles. Of the miracles he said they were necessary for demonstration of the authority and purposes of God toward His people. Dr. Jones pointed out the inconsistency of theologians who accept the endowment of God with unlimited power necessary to creation, and then questioned the truth of incidents in which He disturbed the daily routine of nature in the accomplishment of the Son's great mission on earth.

All the seats were taken and many camp stools and chairs were occupied, and when Dr. Jones began the announcement of his resignation, a solemn silence filled the church. The pastor read his message with deep feeling, and many wet eyes were seen as his flock met him at the door with messages of regret for his loss and good will for himself and family.

Reverend Jones may deliver six more sermons before his departure, which is set for the last week in August. In announcing it, he read from a manuscript, probably for the first time during his pastorate of eight years. The text of his statement follows:

Resignation Of Dr. Jones

To the Congregation of the First Presbyterian Church, La Crosse, Wis.

My dear friends: Eight years ago I was invited to become the pastor of this church on the recommendation of our pulpit committee. It took us a little while to get our bearings and to understand each other, but from the beginning pastor and congregation were agreed that the task confronting us was a large and difficult one.

Deaths, removals, some debts and a building in immediate need of repairs and enlargement complicated our task very seriously the first two or three years of our work together. But as we planned and worked we were convinced more and more that our task, though large and baffling, was a possible one and that all our problems, varied as they were, resolved themselves into the one question of religious interest and helpfulness. We believed with all our hearts that wherever genuine religious interest is awakened, becomes a personal conviction and a help, that there church attendance, church work and church finances are well on the way to be speedily solved.

Success Built on Bible. To the task, looking to a religious interest in this congregation, your pastor devoted all his energy. He tried to represent the Bible as the by-product of the Christian life. Our motto was, "This one thing I do, and the result of this Christian policy in the life and activity of the church has, we believe, been amply justified in your own judgment and in the judgment of the community as well.

To realize our vision we held special meetings, had Bible and catechism classes and organized various groups and societies of men, women and children, but our supreme dependence has been on the preaching of the good news of what Jesus, the incarnate Son of God, has done and what he is doing for those who put their trust in Him. God's grace in Christ, made efficient by the Holy Spirit, has been the burden of our preaching and teaching and the inspiration of all our activities during these years.

We have dwelt upon and emphasized the great, fundamental truths of evangelical Christianity, not as mere dry doctrines, but as the intellectual and unrelated to life and service, but as the great founts of inspiration and powerful moving impulses to a life of consecration and service.

The more we preached these great truths the more we were moved to seek the spiritual and material welfare of those to whom we ministered. The spirit of benevolence and good will among our congregation and toward all worthy causes has been one of the most marked effects of our work.

Entered All Walks. People in walks of life have been received and welcomed with equal cordiality into our fellowship. The better-to-do and poor alike have joined us in great numbers and have found themselves at home in our various organizations in the atmosphere of our Christian democracy and work.

We do not claim perfection for our work—far from it—but that we have done but a very small measure of the task allotted to us, but we do claim that by the grace of God we have been enabled to do enough to prove that the Gospel is still the power of God to change and help men and homes when preached in faith and love and accompanied by its legitimate fruit of unselfish service.

The Call. I presume you are all aware that I have received a call to the pastorate of the Presbyterian church of Neenah, Wisconsin. The desirability of that call and its advantage to me and my family admits of no doubt in my mind, and I only concern in this matter is my duty to the church.

When, about four years ago, I received an urgent call to return to a former pastorate, the session and trustees of this church laid before me so kindly and strongly the unfinished work we had planned here that I readily gave up at that time the advantages of the removal, and I personally and to my family from the acceptance of that call. But the last four years have worked such a change and progress in our church attendance, membership and finances that now, in view of all the facts involved, I believe I am justified in accepting this call to the Neenah church, which will be an advantage to me and especially to my family, and I am sure that all the opportunity I may possibly desire to do what good I can in the years

I therefore this morning present to this congregation my resignation as your pastor and ask you to join me in petitioning the La Crosse Presbytery to dissolve the pastoral relationship now existing between me and this church. My very happy and harmonious relations with the session and the trustees of this church, and with all the members of this church, have been a source of much joy and satisfaction to me, and I am sure that the request of one of my many friends to me to make this request is a very kindly and a very

Words of Affection. And I now have opportunity to express on behalf of myself and family, my heart-felt gratitude to all the officers and members of this congregation for their many and varied favors to us, and their unfailing sympathy and co-operation with me in every phase of our work during my pastorate here. Our relationship, in every respect, has been almost ideal, and we will carry away with us the memory and the influence of eight years of unbroken peace and good will in this

I desire that my resignation take effect the last week of August. I will be in the city until that time, and will attend to any pastoral duties that may need my services during these weeks.

The session calls a congregational meeting of this church to meet in the lecture room Wednesday evening of this week, at 8 p. m., to act on my resignation and to appoint a committee to have in charge the securing of another pastor.

Respectfully,
D. C. JONES, Pastor.

THE HASKIN LETTER

INDIANA'S HUNDRETH BIRTHDAY

By Frederic J. Haskin

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 24.—Americanism, a movement which is getting a thorough workout all over the United States at the present time, is finding its most elaborate expression in Indiana. This year marks the one hundredth anniversary of the admission of the Hoosier state into the union, and steel, agriculture and school systems have been temporarily lost sight of in the importance of celebrating the event. Beginning with the first of the year, every county, public school and woman's club undertook to search American history for Indiana episodes, on which to build patriotic celebrations that are following each other in rapid succession, Indiana having a long list to choose from.

On the last day of the school year, every public school throughout the state held a pioneer day celebration in which the school children, many of whom were descendants of famous pioneers, enacted various incidents of local history. Some even wore the ancient heirlooms of their ancestors and carried oldtime guns and tomahawks, carefully preserved through several generations.

While Indiana has been the scene of many interesting events in the one hundred years of its statehood, the pioneer period is most extensively featured because of its high dramatic values. Following close on the trail blazed by the Lewis and Clark expedition came many emigrants from the seaboard and the Carolinas, hewing their log cabins out of a forest wilderness and living on the spoils of their rifles until they could harvest their corn.

The men who played a prominent part in the state's history are also widely impersonated, if possible, by their direct descendants. William Henry Harrison, no more famous as president of the United States than as governor of Indiana; Abraham Lincoln, who lived fourteen years in Indiana, where it is claimed he acquired his Hoosier story telling habit; Mad Anthony Wayne, the Stonewall Jackson of the middle west; George Rogers Clark and Tecumseh have all appeared several times this year in different centennial celebrations. The Battle of Tippecanoe and the taking of Fort Vincennes, received no more publicity at the time of their occurrence than they have lately in Indiana.

But although local history is certainly well represented, national sentiment is not neglected. It is not overlooked that the real factor of the centennial is the admission of Indiana into the union. One pageant which recently took place featured this idea in a unique and attractive manner. The first scene showed the figure of Columbia on horseback, attended by her daughters, Liberty and Justice, while leading the horses were soldiers of the American revolution.

On either side were small companies of costumed figures supposed to represent capital and labor, while after them came soldiers wearing the uniforms popular in 1816—the year Indiana entered the union. On the heels of these came three hundred children dressed in the individual colors of the flag, who took such positions that they formed a living banner, in which was placed the additional star of Indiana—a young woman, clothed in a blue mantle and wearing a crown containing a huge star. After this, several dancers allegorically supposed to represent Indiana's contributions to the union in the way of forests, fruits, harvest and flowers, were presented formally to Columbia. It is saying much for the unexpected modesty of the state that literature was not represented.

As a rule, Indiana inflates its chest at the mere mention of the word author. Forty or fifty years ago, such was the stigma on the name of Hoosier that an Indian traveling in other parts of the country always stated vaguely that he lived in the Ohio valley; now he answers in a loud voice that he is from Indiana and will even go so far as to mention the town he is from. Because the state once had a large population of illiterate rural Americans, the rest of the country was under the misapprehension that all Indiana was Hoosier to the world, and for Edward Eggleston to teach the Indians themselves a lesson in local pride.

Some years ago, a prominent magazine expressed its sympathy for Edward Eggleston, a man of superior intellect and culture, who was compelled to live in any place so crude as Indiana. Mr. Eggleston immediately took it upon himself to answer

GRIP AND NEURASTHENIA

There is a form of neurasthenia that follows the grip. Doctors call it "post-grippal" neurasthenia. One of the foremost medical authorities of New York city in a lecture in the international clinics, said:

"Broadly speaking, every victim of the grip will suffer from post-grippal neurasthenia also. Lowering of nervous tone with increased irritability is the most striking effect of the disease, languor of mind and body, disturbed, fitful sleep and vague pains in the head and elsewhere. The treatment calls for rest and a tonic."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, a non-alcoholic tonic, are particularly suited for building up the blood and strengthening the nerves after an attack of the grip. The rich, red blood expels the lingering germs from the system and transforms despondent grip victims into cheerful, healthy, happy men and women.

If you have had the grip get a box of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills now from the nearest drug store and begin the treatment at once.

On request we will send you a free pamphlet, "Building Up the Blood," which contains a chapter on the grip. Address the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

this statement, asserting that he was perfectly satisfied with Indiana, and considered that he would have lost rather than gained had he been born in New Bedford or Beacon Hill. After that Indians began to hold up their heads and take deliberate occasion to tell people they were Hoosiers.

Hoosier is significant of the distinctiveness of Indiana, just as Yankee is of New England. In the midst of the middle western states, Indiana has been influenced by none of them, being sufficient unto herself and retaining her own particular individuality. It has been said that if a high wall were built around Indiana, shutting her off from the rest of the world, she would still continue to sustain herself and operate her industries, regretting not so much that she had lost the world, but that the world had lost Indiana.

Indiana was practically the last frontier state to be settled. When her people came they met the resentment of the Indians who already had been disillusioned with regard to white men by other state settlers. Hence, for many years the whole territory was the hotbed of various Indian outbreaks and uprisings, culminating at last in the Battle of Tippecanoe. Tecumseh, seeing that his race was gradually being pushed westward under a system of unfair land claims, sought to federate all the tribes together and thus combat the white man. While banding together the Indians in the south, however, the northern Indians, worked into a frenzy by his brother, known as the Prophet, forced the issue by attacking the settlers at Tippecanoe where Governor Harrison had his troops assembled. The battle, of course, turned out a victory for the settlers and proved the final blow to Tecumseh's hopes of an Indian federation.

The territory was just beginning to attain a strong hold on existence when the war of 1812 came, exacting its obligations in the way of money and men. The war with Mexico, coming in 1846, found the state totally unprepared, with neither adequate finances or militia to answer the president's call for volunteers. It did possess a strenuous adjutant general, though, who carried through a rapid system of mobilization that broke all military records at the time, and when the troops finally departed Indiana had three regiments, with two more in training.

Now that another Mexican crisis is haunting the political horizon, Indiana has again sent her troops Hoosiers to help protect Uncle Sam, among whom are the descendants of some of the state's great men. Not all of Indiana's great men belong to the past, however, as witness the continued epidemic of authors and her many political orators. Even the plain everyday Hoosier is now treated with marked respect, instead of amused toleration, for if he is not the secret author of several successful poems himself, he is at least the type which has made Indiana famous.

HEAT FLASHES, DIZZY, NERVOUS

Mrs. Wynn Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helped Her During Change of Life.

Richmond, Va.—"After taking seven bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I feel like a new woman. I always had a headache during the Change of Life and was also troubled with other bad feelings common at that time—dizzy spells, nervous feelings and heat flashes. Now I am in better health than I ever was and recommend your remedies to all my friends."—Mrs. LENA WYNN, 2812 E. O Street, Richmond, Va.

While Change of Life is a most critical period of a woman's existence, the annoying symptoms which accompany it may be controlled, and normal health restored by the timely use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Such warning symptoms are a sense of suffocation, hot flashes, headaches, backaches, dread of impending evil, timidity, sounds in the ears, palpitation of the heart, sparks before the eyes, irregularities, constipation, variable appetite, weakness and inquietude, and dizziness.

For these abnormal conditions do not fail to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

It may be controlled, and normal health restored by the timely use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

TOMAH MAN SERIOUSLY HURT BY AUTO WHEN THROWN ON WINDSHIELD

TOMAH, Wis., July 24.—(Special.)—Late Saturday afternoon what might have been a serious accident occurred at Purdy Valley. Roy Bowen and a friend from Bangor were motoring to Spring Bank to spend Sunday with their families, who are in camp there. They were directed through Purdy Valley to avoid the deep sand, and took the wrong road. In trying to get back onto the right road, they got into an unused track, and their car struck a grass covered stump in the middle of the road.

Mr. Bowen, who was driving, was thrown against the windshield. He threw up his arm, which was badly cut. The accident happened just back of the old Byron Purdy farm. Those who came to the men's assistance used every means to stop the flow of blood—and only Mr. Bowen's presence of mind—by pressing his fingers on the wound was he able to stop the flow.

Dr. Johnson of Tomah was called out. He packed the wound and brought the man to the hospital. Under an anesthetic the doctors were able to properly dress the wound. The axle of the car was bent almost double.

Infantile Paralysis Case

The 8-year-old child of Mr. Parker, living between Mather and Warrens, who has been quarantined at the hospital for infantile paralysis, is sufficiently recovered to be removed to her home. The little girl will no doubt be crippled for life, having lost entire use of her lower limbs.

Hard Tack Unpopular

In a letter received from Lieutenant A. A. Fix of the supply company, he says that he was in charge of issuing the rations for the second section of the trip to San Antonio, and the hardest work he had was getting rid of his 5,630 pounds of hard tack, which he had to issue to the soldiers. As long as the boys had any money, they would not eat the hard bread, but would buy fresh food.

He says there are about 18,000 men in camp and they have 200 auto trucks which are busy all of the time. The grounds are laid out in the form of a horse shoe.

Minnesota and Iowa

DETECTIVE FELS BYSTANDER--CASE MAY BE MURDER

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., July 24.—Felled by a blow from a blackjack in the hands of Ed Murnane, a St. Paul detective, Archibald A. Priest of Minneapolis is at the city hospital in a critical condition, with his skull fractured at the base and a cerebral hemorrhage.

Attack Near Court House

Priest and Murnane had both been arrested near Fourth street and Marquette avenue Sunday night by Patrolman J. A. Finlayson after a quarrel in which Priest, was hit twice. The blow with the blackjack, according to several witnesses, was struck just before the men reached the court house at the Third avenue side as they were being taken to police headquarters.

Slueth Freed on Bail

Murnane was arraigned on a warrant charging assault in the first degree. He was released on $5,000 bonds furnished by Michael Gebhardt, acting chief, St. Paul, and Sergeant Thomas Murnane of the St. Paul force, the detective's father.

Assault Unprovoked

The evidence indicates that Murnane, who was drunk, struck Priest three times without provocation, twice with his fist before the arrest and once with a blackjack while both were entering the court house, under arrest. The police department is criticized for leniency in dealing with Murnane.

MINNESOTA THE LEADER IN HEALTH IS BORDER REPORT

CAMP LLANO GRANDE, Texas, July 24.—Guardsmen from Minnesota have beaten all health records at Camp Llano Grande. The First and Second infantry regiments late today had not a man in the field hospital at the camp. The First regiment has been in the Texas camp since Sunday morning.

Record is Remarkable

This record is one which interests the army doctors here and the chief surgeons of the Minnesota regiments have been congratulated by the regular army men.

The routine of the day here is much like it was at Camp Bobleter, but there is more drilling. The men rise at 5:30 a. m. and breakfast at 6. They drill four hours a day, from 6:40 a. m. to 7:40 a. m., and from 8:20 to 9:20 a. m., and again from 4:20 to 5:20 p. m. and 6:30 to 7:30 p. m.

In addition to this each man attends school for an hour.

Beginning Monday a school in Spanish will be begun in the First regiment with Lieutenant Colonel Hugh F. McGee in charge.

To Publish Paper

The First Minnesota is to publish a weekly paper, the second to be published along the border. It is to be known as the Minnesota Border Patrol and will be printed in Mercedes. The Illinois cavalry contingent at Brownsville is publishing a weekly paper.

IOWA TROOPS ON WAY TO BORDER

DES MOINES, Ia., July 24.—The Second Iowa infantry entrained Saturday afternoon and the first section left for the Mexican border at 7 o'clock, two others following at short intervals. The trains are routed over the Burlington. The squadron of cavalry was expected to leave Sunday.

By Tuesday Colonel Morgan, chief mustering officer, said all the Iowa troops will have been moved.

The soldiers spent the day "polishing" camp preparatory to their departure.

Reports from the advance guard of Iowa infantry indicate that the Third infantry which left Camp Dodge early Friday morning is today somewhere in Kansas. Correspondents with the Third, state that the Iowans are receiving rousing receptions all along the line and at Conception, Mo., the entire town turned out and bombarded the Iowans with flowers.

SNIPERS BOTHER GOPHER TROOPERS

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., July 24.—There has been sniping around the camp of the First Minnesota infantry, encamped at Llano Grande, Texas, says a letter from George H. Porter of Company K received yesterday by Charles Robertson, cigar dealer at Fifth street and Second Avenue South.

The letter enclosed a check for the purchase of a revolver that Porter wished sent to him. In explanation he wrote:

"We are only about five miles from the border and have to carry a gun whenever we leave camp. There already has been some sniping around."

"Our bunch had a fine trip all the way down," the letter said.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., July 24.—The first battalions, First Field artillery, with Lieutenant Colonel W. J. Murphy in command, with the regimental staff and headquarters and the First Field artillery band, have been mustered into the federal service.

Medical examination of the men began at noon today.

Three Killed

TROOPS MUSTER IN HARVESTERS MOBILIZING

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., July 24.—Moving from congested cities east and west, from smaller towns, from mills and factories and from college communities, on foot, in railway coaches and on trucks under the coaches, the healthy, hardy, husky army of harvest hands is mobilizing in the northwest. They are coming up from the south in bunches. If the black rust does not beat them to the rain, there will be need for 15,000 to 20,000 in the northwest and Canada.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., July 24.—Definite announcement that Charles E. Hughes will make two speeches in the Twin cities August 9, one in Minneapolis and one in St. Paul, was made today after a long distance telephone conference between Frank B. Kellogg in St. Paul and Chairman W. R. Wilcox of the republican national committee in New York.

BELIEVE FORTUNE $10,000,000

OSHKOSH, Wis., July 24.—The will of the late Charles R. Smith, multimillionaire of Menasha, and reputed to have been the wealthiest man in Wisconsin, was filed in probate court here Saturday. The petition of the will merely states that the value of personal property left by Mr. Smith exceeds $500,000, but men familiar with the affairs of Mr. Smith conservatively place the value of property left by him at from ten to fifteen millions.

Many a self-made man tries to blame the job on his wife.

PLACE RED CROSS ON WAR FOOTING PLAN OF SOCIETY

That a local membership of from 1,000 to 2,000 is not deemed impossible is a fact that best demonstrates the scope and importance of the plans now being prosecuted by the La Crosse chapter of the American Red Cross society, and feeling that a movement of so large proportions must have considerable interest in the community, the publicity committee is preparing for the press a series of articles explanatory of the work, of which the first follows.

The organization of the chapter is simple and logical. At the head is an executive committee of ten members, serving as the trunk of the organization, from which branch two main stems, one civilian, the other military. These stems are subdivided into smaller branches, three for the civilian and two for the military phases of the work, each of the five subdivisions being represented by a committee. They are: Civilian—funds, membership, publicity; military—first aid, supplies. The personnel of the committees has been published.

At present the work being most pressed is the formation of classes for women, several of which are now in full progress. Heretofore these classes have been divided as to the line of instruction into (1) elementary hygiene and care of the sick at home; (2) first aid. Now, however, in order to prepare for the emergency of actual war, a new course combining these two is being given as a temporary substitute for the regular courses, and it is this work that is being undertaken by the women of La Crosse.

Fifteen Lessons
The new course comprises fifteen lessons, of which the first ten are given by local nurses and the remaining five by local physicians. Examinations for certificates will be given by local nurses and physicians other than those who give the instructions.

Expense Is Small
The expense involved to each member is approximately $1.60, of which $1.10 pays for two books, one dealing with first aid, the other with elementary hygiene and home care of the sick; 50 cents is devoted to such incidentals as the cost of examinations, certificate of registration, etc. In this connection it is pleasant to note that while the rules permit payment for instruction and examination, the La Crosse physicians and nurses have volunteered to do the work without compensation.

Assignment is Optional
Anyone who has attended twelve of the fifteen lessons and complied with the requirements of membership is eligible to the examination. The percentage requirement is 75. The names of all who successfully pass the examinations will be placed on file at Red Cross headquarters, Washington, D. C. Examinations are not compulsory, but names of only those who take them will be placed on file.

Of those who pass the examinations, any who have shown exceptional qualifications in some special line—ward service, supply stations, linen rooms, diet kitchens, etc., may (not MUST) be assigned to hospital units or similar formations organized as a reserve for the army and navy in the event of war.

Pushing the Work
The five classes now organized are receiving from two to three lessons each week, and are speeding up the work in order to take the examinations as early as possible. Others are striving to form classes or to take the work are urged to communicate with Mrs. Andrew Lees for further information and instruction. The executive committee emphasizes the fact that the invitation to patriotic American women is general, and the hope is expressed that the ladies of La Crosse will hasten to express their desire to participate in this important branch of the work devoted to placing the nation in a position of reasonable security.

MILLIONS IN GOLD REPORTED PLACED ON GERMAN DIVER

BALTIMORE, Md., July 24.—The dilatory dare-devil, diver-boat Deutschland was still in this port of crabs and ocean-going mosquitoes today.

Persistent reports say that the Deutschland will carry from $10,000 to $4,000,000 worth of gold, if insurance is obtainable. As the story goes, the money was taken from the interned German liner Princess Cecilie at Boston.

Wireless Is Sealed
The wireless instruments of the Deutschland were sealed by federal officials this afternoon under the neutrality laws. Meantime pipes had been run from the nearby liner Neckar to the submarine and a supply of fresh water was pumped aboard. The tug Timmins, standing by, was under a full head of steam.

FARMERS BUREAU TO ORGANIZE AS LAST OF CHAMBER

More Than Fifty Members Have Enrolled and Will Meet on Wednesday

REAL SERVICE OFFERED
Bureau Will Work with Aggie School; Has Club Privileges for the Farmers

The organization of the bureau of the Chamber of Commerce will be completed Wednesday night with the meeting of the Agricultural bureau. It will be held at 8 o'clock at the La Crosse club. Over fifty members of the Chamber have enrolled in this bureau, and it promises to be effective in the work of bringing the farmers of this territory into better relations with the city of La Crosse.

Plan to Enlist Farmers
In addition to electing two directors to the general board of the Chamber of Commerce, the meeting will discuss methods for conducting a campaign among the farmers of this territory for membership in the Chamber of Commerce. This organization will offer farmers real service in return for their membership dues, and many believe that a large membership can be secured in this and Houston county in Minnesota.

Ultimately, and it is predicted for the very near future, the Chamber of Commerce will be housed in a modern commercial organization building with club features, so that it will be extremely convenient for the farmers to make use of the club in transacting business, meeting friends, and in the social features.

Many Interested
The chamber has already enrolled a small number of farmers, and many other farmers have inquired if the organization would offer any advantages in return for their membership. The original plans of the organization provided that the Agricultural bureau would be of real service in bettering marketing conditions for farmers, and of providing in La Crosse better conditions for the rural population.

The bureau will co-operate with the agricultural school at Onalaska in any way that is practical. President Campton of that school is an enthusiastic member of the bureau.

The meeting Wednesday night will be open to all members of the Chamber of Commerce that are interested, and those who have not enrolled in this bureau and desire to do so are requested to be present and enroll at that time.

SIX KILLED BY BOMB IN CROWD WATCHING MARCH

show that we will go to any extreme, the same as the controlling class, to preserve what little democracy we still have. Don't take this as a joke, or you will be rudely awakened. Awaken. We have sworn to do our duty to the masses and only send warnings to those who are wise but who are forced to march to hold their jobs. As we want to give only the hypocritical patriots who shout for war, but never go, a real taste of war.

"Kindly ask the Chamber of Commerce to march in a solid body, if they want to prove they are no cowards."

"A copy has been sent to all the papers. Our duty has been done so far."

To run down the dynamite, all the energies of the city of San Francisco called into action today. Following the announcement by Major Rolph that he would personally guarantee a reward of $5,000 for the apprehension of the criminal, Chief of Police David White established a separate and exclusive bureau in the detective department devoted wholly to this case.

Chief White expressed the opinion today that the dynamiter was an anarchist, and he believes that he was taught to make such powerful, deadly contrivance by other anarchist experts.

The most promising clew was furnished by William Taylor, an aged peddler, who said he saw a man leave a suitcase on the spot where the bomb exploded, at 1:30, half an hour before the explosion. He remarked to the man, he said, that it was a poor place to leave his grip, but the man walked hurriedly away. Taylor was able to give a meager description of him.

BROTHER SLASHES SISTER AND SELF

held him until police arrived. He was rushed to the La Crosse hospital.

Anna was Heiser's favorite of three sisters. He always confided in her, it is said, and the pair were inseparable. In a statement made on Monday morning at the hospital, Miss Heiser said that the trouble began when her brother demanded a small amount of money which she had put away for him.

Miss Heiser's Statement
"Peter asked me to keep a few dollars for him," Miss Heiser said. "He always wanted me to keep his money. Saturday night he asked me to give the money back. I told him I thought he had enough and then he attacked me with his razor."

Miss Heiser said that her brother had been acting queerly for several days. She told nurses at the hospital that she had surmised that Heiser was losing his mind.

Heiser is kept at the hospital under police surveillance.

British Premier Asks War Credit Of 450 Millions

LONDON, July 24.—Premier Asquith in the commons today moved for a vote of credit on 450,000,000 pounds, the largest amount which the government has asked for in a single bill since the beginning of the war.

The measure, characterized as "a supplementary estimate" will bring the total asked this year up to 1,950,000,000 pounds and the total since the beginning of the war to 2,832,000,000 pounds or about $14,150,000,000. The amount asked for today approximates $2,191,500,000.

BIG CIRCUS WITH CHAMPIONS COMES EARLY TUESDAY

Get out the "oh's" and "ah's." Polish up the adjectives and other things of an exclamatory type. For tomorrow there comes to town the Sells-Floto and Buffalo Bill's Wild West Champion Shows of the World for a stay of one day.

The big show is to come here in two trains. It will arrive early tomorrow morning and by 8 o'clock the wagons will be on the lot and the putting up of the circus, from the horsetails to the menagerie top, will begin. By noon not a detail will be lacking for the giving of the performances that are to follow.

And many promises are made this year for these performances. There will be Frank Gotch, wrestling champion of the world, and Jesse Willard, heavyweight champion of the world, who will appear in his old role of a cowboy at the head of the Buffalo Bill cowboys, and, incidentally, give an exhibition of sparring with his boxing partner and illustrate just how he won the championship.

The parade will leave the show grounds promptly at 10:30 o'clock in the morning and traverse the downtown streets. Every one will be in the parade, except, of course, Willard and Gotch, who appear only in the performances.

THREE HURT IN CAR-AUTO SMASH

bago street. Motorman Lysacker saw the speeding car approaching and slowed his car down to a foot-pace.

Plunges Into Car
Knutsen did not slow down, witnesses say, and the automobile plunged into the corner of the car. The street car's fender was ripped off and the automobile almost demolished.

Knutsen was jammed against the steering wheel. Heideman was hurled through the windshield. One rib was broken and he was cut by the flying glass.

The Johnson boy's head was badly cut and he fainted. Knutsen crawled to a plot of ground nearby and moaned until a physician arrived. He was immediately taken home. Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Riley, 1502 Adams street, parents of the boy, were notified. They secured an automobile and came for their son. It was said today that his injuries are not serious.

Knutsen was unconscious on Monday afternoon. The attending physician said that he had probably been hurt internally. He became unconscious shortly after arriving home and has not regained consciousness.

To Be Arrested
Chief of Police John B. Webber said on Monday that a warrant would be secured for the arrest of Knutsen. He is investigating the affair.

Officials of the Advance Bedding company stated that the delivery truck had been taken from its garage without permission.

DEAD GUARDSMEN REGULARS

WASHINGTON, July 24.—Widows of national guardsmen killed in service in the Mexican border must be paid the same gratuity of six months' salary as is accorded widows of regulars, in accordance with an opinion by Treasurer Comptroller Warwick today.

SAGE TEA DANDY TO DARKEN HAIR

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Bring Back Color and Lustre to Hair.

You can turn gray, faded hair beautifully dark and lustrous almost overnight if you'll get a 50-cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" at any drug store. Millions of bottles of this old famous Sage Tea Recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, are sold annually, says a well-known druggist here, because it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that no one can tell it has been applied.

Those whose hair is turning gray or becoming faded have a surprise awaiting them, because after one or two applications the gray hair vanishes and your locks become luxuriantly dark and beautiful.

This is the age of youth. Gray-haired, unattractive folks aren't wanted around, so get busy with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound tonight and you'll be delighted with your dark, handsome hair and your youthful appearance within a few days.

This preparation is a toilet requisite and is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

BOSSHARD NOT TO RUN AGAIN HE'S FOR CLARK

La Crosse Senator Today Authorizes Statement That He Will Give Up His Seat

Senator Otto Bosshard, who recently withdrew from the race for the gubernatorial nomination in the interests of harmony, making way for Senator Hutton of New London, will not be a candidate in the coming elections. The senator has announced that he will not run again for his present seat in the state senate.

Sensor Bosshard is supporting E. F. Clark of Galesville, who announced his candidacy for the senate early in the spring. The La Crosse leader at that time endorsed the candidacy of Mr. Clark. Today he reiterated the endorsement.

"I am for Clark," he said, when asked if he intended to make the race again. "I have been for him since he came into the field, and I will remain so."

The Galesville progressive is opposed by John C. Gaveny of Arcadia, a conservative.

BUTTON FIRM'S ANNUAL PICNIC COMES WEDNESDAY

Employees of the Wisconsin Pearl Button company are looking forward with great interest to the annual picnic, at which, according to company, they will be the guests of the company. The picnic is to be given on Wednesday.

The steamer G. W. Hill has been chartered for the occasion, and will carry the employees to Dakota park for the day. It was announced that not only the employees at the plant are expected to be the company's guest at the excursion and picnic, but also the women who sew buttons on cards at their homes. There are a score or more of these part-time workers employed by the company.

The company's guests are expected to bring with them only their lunch. Lemonade, cracker-jack, coffee, etc., will be furnished by the hosts.

RAIN CALLS OFF DRILL AT CAMP

to Wisconsin ideas. The mercury has reached as high as 110 degrees, but owing to the dry atmosphere, the heat is scarcely more oppressive than 90 degrees in Wisconsin. The men are rapidly becoming used to the climate, too, and the number of men answering sick call is rapidly decreasing. Sanitary conditions are beyond reproach.

When La Crosse companies come home, it is probable that many of them will be unrecognizable even to their own families. Razors have gone completely out of fashion, and every soldier who can raise a mustache is tending it with care. This also applies, by the way, to those who can't raise a crop. If anything, the care with which these latter tend their upper lips exceeds that of their more hirsute comrades.

The tarantula scare has subsided in great measure, since the men have found out that the ground tarantula which abounds around the camp is not much more dangerous than a bee.

New Lightweight Uniforms
The heavy olive drab uniforms which the men wore when mobilized will soon be replaced by lighter weight khaki more suitable to the weather. The men have been assured for the new uniforms, which will arrive shortly.

Each man's olive drab has been presented to him by the state. With the new uniforms will go regulation shoes and leggings, but the cost of these will be stopped out of the men's $80 a year allowance.

All of Company M was in great consternation Friday when "Baldy," the mascot, turned up missing. He was found late in the evening in the camp of one of the Illinois regiments, where preparations for a motor stew were in progress. There was much recrimination and prospects of trouble appeared imminent before M company recaptured its pet and brought him home. He is now under a strong guard.

Edward Fitzpatrick, of the hospital corps, received notice that he will be honorably discharged under the married men's relief act. He is expected to be sent back within a week.

The Third regiment band took an auto ride through San Antonio on Friday, and several other companies are planning to follow the example. Friday night the first band concert since coming to Texas was held near regimental headquarters. An impromptu vaudeville followed, of which Marshall Cohen's bass solos were the chief attraction.

Herbert Hall, assistant cook of Company M, has resigned, and his position was taken by Theodore "Toots" Garder, former bugler.

Longbrake Active
Chaplain George R. Longbrake is active in arranging for a series of baseball games, an inter-company league being under way. Regimental games with other commands are in prospect, and plans for song-fests, etc., are also maturing.

Colonel Lee of the Second infantry has appointed R. Connor of Marshallfield a battalion sergeant major. Mr. Connor is a wealthy banker and lumberman who enlisted as a private to come south. He was captain of Company A in the Second until two years ago.

Pawnbrokers are advance agents of hard times.

M'GREGOR INVITED TO PLAN PAGEANT WITH PRAIRIE

Iowa City Will Probably Join with Prairie du Chien in Staging Replica of Series of Historical Events

DISCOVERY OF MISSISSIPPI
Marquette and Joliet to Be Among Central Figures in the Pageant to Mark Date of Founding Fort Crawford

M'GREGOR, Iowa, July 24.—(Special).—The McGregor Commercial club and Auto Trails' association have been invited to meet with the Commercial club of Prairie du Chien to consider the matter of holding a historical pageant to celebrate the centenary of the founding of Fort Crawford. It is believed that such a pageant, if staged at this time, will attract widespread attention to the historical importance of the region about the two towns proposed for a national park site.

Miss Ethel Rockwell of the University of Wisconsin who has had extensive experience with the preparation of pageants will address the point meeting of the two commercial clubs. If the plan carries it will probably take the form of a water pageant on the Mississippi and be held some time this fall.

Among the historical incidents to be reproduced will probably be the discovery of the Mississippi by Marquette and Joliet, the founding of the first fur trading and old French blockhouse, the founding of Fort Crawford, the surrender the following year to the British in an engagement of the War of 1812, the establishment of the new fort, the planting of the Stars and Stripes on Pike's Peak by the explorer General Pike, the great treaty conferences with the Indians, the founding of the Astor fur trading post and the life that centered about it and the other trading posts, the events of the Black Hawk war, the traditional elopement of Jefferson Davis and the daughter of Zachary Taylor, the Spanish Grant to Basil Girard at McGregor, the Indian Mission and the Farm on Yellow river and the exodus of the latter days when Prairie du Chien and McGregor played such a large part in the settlement and development of northern Iowa and southern Wisconsin and Minnesota.

Five Thousand Markers
The metal markers for the Geranium Trail from Waterloo to McGregor and the National Park highway from Ottumwa to McGregor have been shipped to the McGregor and the other auto trail associations in the different towns along the two routes and will within a few days be put up along both trails. Five thousand of each of the signs have been made. The Geranium Trail emblem is a large G with a red geranium in the center. The Park highway emblem carries a design which combines the circular blue and gold emblem of the Mississippi Valley National park with a triangle containing the initials of the three towns, Ottumwa, Cedar Rapids and McGregor. The route of the Geranium Trail will be McGregor, Elkader, Elkader, Strawberry Point, Oelwein, Fairbank, Dunkerton, DeWaver, Ryan, Gogson, Central City, Mader, Littleport, Edgewood, Manchester, Cedar Rapids, Fairfax, Conray, Williamsburg, Parnell, North English, Sigourney and Ottumwa.

Workmen Have Store
The latest addition to the group of buildings and shacks have been put up at the West Yards at North McGregor for the army of workmen who are to be employed in building the new roundhouse, shops and yards, is a general store. This will be operated by the railway company for the accommodation of the employees just as the new big boarding house is.

Local and ersonal
J. L. Kramer with the assistance of Miss Althea R. Sherman has been preparing a list of trees, wild flowers and birds native to this section for use in the lectures to be given by the Greater Iowa association. The list includes forty-two varieties of trees, thirty-eight varieties of wild flowers and 216 different species of birds.

The river is still so high at this point that the steamer Quincy on its trip up river last week passed over the government dams in going from McGregor to Prairie du Chien. The rivermen say this has not happened before in July.

Mrs. T. L. Donovan and daughters, Gertrude and Ellen, leave this week for St. Paul to make that city their future home. The Donovan family have been residents of McGregor for a number of years.

Among the cars that have passed through McGregor over the North Iowa Pike this week was one from Vermont and another from Fargo, North Dakota.

By an agreement between the city council and Conductor L. Hoxsie about ten feet will be cut away from the lower end of Conductor Hoxsie's lot at the foot of Main street to permit a widening of the street at the turn to North McGregor. The narrowness of the road at present between the railroad track and the sidewalk makes the turn a very dangerous one.

Several carloads of steel shells passed through here over the Milwaukee road en route to Charles City to be finished up and shipped to Europe.

The Ladies' Industrial society of the Congregational church held their annual lawn social in Buell park on Thursday evening. About one hundred dollars were taken in.

The Cody Road to Yellowstone

The ONLY Auto Route Into the Park.

The wonderfully beautiful scenery along this new route to America's only Geyserland has already won everlasting admiration from the enthusiastic tourists who have traversed its picturesque course. Experienced travelers, who know what's what, agree that in the sustained beauty and grandeur of the scenery it far exceeds the Park itself, except in one particular—the Grand Canyon of the Yellowstone River.

The route lies through the "Buffalo Bill" country, up the great Canyon of the Shoshone River and across the evergreen-covered mountains of the Absaroka Range via beautiful Sylvan Pass.

If you visit Yellowstone this summer, be sure and go at least one way via the Cody Road. You won't regret it. I'll be glad to help you plan your trip. Burlington trains run direct to Yellowstone Park.

FIRST VIRGINIA ALL READY FOR WAR WITH A FEW EXCEPTIONS

BY WILLIAM G. SHEPHERD
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)
SAN ANTONIO, Tex., July 24.—Militia from President Wilson's own town was no more ready to go into Mexico than any other state militia along the border.

Colonel William J. Perry of the First Virginians, whose home is in Staunton, spoke smilingly today in his tent of what he hoped would be sent him in the way of supplies. He has a machine gun company that is all ready to go into Mexico, except that it has no machine guns. He has twenty fine transport wagons ready for immediate use; the harnesses are in excellent shape, with buckles and everything, but he has no horses.

Less than half his officers have mounts. The band which comes from the president's town has plenty of horns and drums, but the incinerator tins, which are used in destroying garbage, have not arrived.

"How much time would you want to prepare your regiment to go into Mexico?" I asked.

"It would require two months."

HOOSIER POET OF HOMELY THINGS DIES

as to the advance of age and evaded inquiries as to the date of his birth, but the most accurate information available indicates that he was born in 1848.

"Should you ask his age," one of his friends said, "he would answer 'This side of forty,' and leave you to guess which side."

Son of a Lawyer
The poet was the son of Reuben A. Riley, a lawyer and political speaker of Greenfield, Ind. The boy could not be brought to the dull routine of school days, but he was wise in the lore of streams and fields. His mother, who was Elizabeth Marine before her marriage, was a writer of verse, and Riley in later life attributed some of his intractability to her.

Instead of preparing for the practice of law, as his father wished, the son turned itinerant sign painter. For ten years he roved through the Ohio valley, painting signs on fences. He had the trick of the brush and pencil and cleverly drew sketches illustrating the virtues of merchandise. He was naturally musical and shone as a fiddler in the villages at which his party stopped at night. He played for dances and at concerts in country hotels. He wrote rhymes, which sometimes found their way into country newspapers.

He led this cheerful, free and easy life until the late '70's, then he took employment as a reporter on a newspaper at Anderson, Ind. In 1877, for the purpose, as he said, of proving that he could write poetry of value, he perpetrated the Poe hoax which for years was a literary sensation. He wrote a poem in the style of Edgar Allan Poe, to which he gave the characteristic title of "Leonanie," and it was offered to the public as hitherto unpublished product of the genius of Poe. One of the stanzas was:

"Leonanie—angels named her, and they took the light Of the laughing stars and framed her In a smile of white. And they made her hair of gloomy Midnight and her eyes of bloomy Monshine and they brought her to me In the solemn night."

In some quarters the poem was accepted as genuine; in others it was denounced as a fraud. After the controversy had waged for months Riley confessed.

Was Called Hoosier Poet
In the early '80's he began writing verses in "Hoosier" dialect for the old Indianapolis Journal. He sent worth Longfellow and they received his praise. A volume was published and "The Hoosier poet" began to win a public. He was an excellent reader of his own dialect verses, and for the following fifteen years, or until 1898, made tours of the country, appearing in public with great success, both alone and in association with the humorist, Bill Nye, who was his intimate friend.

Publication of books of poems year after year brought Riley a fortune and wide recognition of his literary genius and not only in the genre form. Many of his poems are of imaginative fantasy or gently philosophic.

In 1902 he received the degree of master of arts from Yale university, and in 1904 the University of Pennsylvania conferred the honorary degree of LL. D. on him in 1907.

In July 1911, the poet presented to the city of Indianapolis property valued at $75,000 for a site for a public library and school administration building.

Mr. Riley never married, but he was a lover of children, whose spirit he divined so intimately, and of family life. Many of the last years of his

Everyone Should Drink Hot Water in the Morning

Wash away all the stomach, liver, and bowel poisons before breakfast.

To feel your best day in and day out, to feel clean inside; no sour bile to coat your tongue and sicken your breath or dull your head; no constipation, bilious attacks, sick headache, colds, rheumatism or gassy, acid stomach, you must bathe on the inside like you bathe outside. This is vastly more important, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, while the bowel pores do, says a well-known physician.

To keep these poisons and toxins well flushed from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, drink before breakfast each day, a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it. This will cleanse, purify and freshen the entire alimentary tract, before putting more food into the stomach.

Get a quarter pound of Limestone phosphate from your pharmacist. It is inexpensive and almost tasteless, except a sourish twinge which is not unpleasant. Drink phosphated hot water every morning to rid your system of these vile poisons and toxins; also to prevent their formation.

To feel like young folks feel; like you felt before your blood, nerves and muscles became saturated with an accumulation of body poisons, begin this treatment and above all, keep it up! As soap and hot water act on the skin, cleansing, sweetening and purifying, so limestone phosphate and hot water before breakfast, act on the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels.

RESORTS FEAR PLAGUE

AND WOULD BE BOARDERS ARE SENT BACK TO CITY

NEW YORK, July 24.—Panic-stricken by the infantile paralysis epidemic, cities and towns of New Jersey and Connecticut are sending back hundreds of New York men, women and children seeking to go to their summer homes.

Despite the fact that they showed no symptoms of the disease, 125 persons from Greater New York arrived here early Saturday, having been barred from Mountain View, N. J., and forced to sleep in the railroad station there all night.

Thirty-five children and fifteen adults were expected Saturday from New London, Conn., where the boat on which they were traveling was held up. Inspectors at railroad and highways leading into Paterson sent back all children from Greater New York and those bound for Rhode Island have been placed in quarantine.

WOULD PUT ADVERTISERS ON DEMOCRATS' TRAIL

NEW YORK, July 24.—A scheme to utilize all republican advertising agents in a publicity campaign for Hughes was under consideration Saturday by Republican National Chairman Wilcox. Two Chicagoans, members of the Associated Advertising clubs of America, which is now conducting a campaign for truth in advertising, have presented plans for a republican organization which would "tell the truth about politics and republicanism" and apply to advertising of the G. O. P. "the same merchandising principles that are applied to successful business enterprises."

BELIEVE REPUBLICANS SEEK ALL INFORMATION ON MEXICAN SITUATION

NEW YORK, July 24.—That the republicans are gathering all possible evidence on the Mexican situation for a campaign issue, was indicated Saturday when Henry Lane Wilson, former ambassador, went into a long conference with Chairman Wilcox of the republican national committee.

Wilson indicated that he was there for the purpose of discussing the problem of Mexico and outlining the weakness of the present administration policy in dealing with the situation.

FORMAN-MURRAY FILM IS "SWEET KITTY BELLAIRS"

Tom Forman, who scored such a success as Lord Carnal in the support of Mae Murray in the Lasky production of "To Have and to Hold," will be seen at the Bijou to night and Tuesday, again in support of the charming star in the Lasky production of David Belasco's famous play, "Sweet Kitty Bellairs," on the Paramount program. Burton Holmes Travel Pictures also shown.

WELCH TRAINS HARD

NEW YORK, July 24.—Freddie Welch is training hard today for his battle with Benny Leonard next Friday night. The champion claims to have the greatest respect for his youthful challenger.

Thirty-five hits were made off the nine pitchers used in the White Sox-Detroit game.

THREE STARS AT THE MAJESTIC TUESDAY

One of the greatest hits of the Triangle plays was "Between Men," in which Wm. Hart, Enid Markey and House Peters are starred.

In this play Wm. Hart plays the part of the western and then goes to New York to help out his friend and incidentally shows the Wall Street men that he knows enough to beat them at their own game. House Peters and Hart put up one of the best fights ever pulled in the movies.

The finish of the movie is a novelty introduced by Mr. Ince, that of taking the movie following an observation car, and at the climax the car is cut loose and we see the principals disappear in the distance.

"Between Men" comes to the Majestic next Tuesday and Wednesday.

Roush, who went to the Reds almost unnoticed in the Mathewson-Herzog deal, got two triples and a single in four times up, but his teammates failed to deliver and lost to the Phillies 8 to 1.

Yesterday's Hero

Mordecai Brown, the three fingered wizard of yester year, "came back" and to the cheers of 20,000 Chicago bugs beat the Giants. Miner didn't do anything startling, but the very fact that he trimmed the Giants made him one of the world's great men with the Cub fans.

The Browns whipped Cleveland when they jammed over three runs in the tenth inning. Each side played errorless ball.

Hess, the White Sox first sacker, got a triple, two doubles and two singles out of six times up.

EIGHT DIE PLAYING

NEW YORK, July 24.—Speeding automobiles and terrific surf took their toll of lives among New York's pleasure-seekers Sunday, eight persons being killed and over a score injured.

A self-made man imagines that he used up all the really good material.

EAT LESS MEAT IF BACK HURTS

Take a glass of Salts to flush kidneys if bladder bothers you.

Eating meat regularly eventually produces kidney trouble in some form or other, says a well-known authority, because the uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish; clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region; rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity; also to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts cannot injure anyone; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus avoiding serious kidney disease.

ATHLETES TAKE ONALASKA OVER BUMPS, 7 TO 4

The Athletes added another to their string of victories by defeating the fast Onalaska team on its home grounds Sunday. Foss and Saubert were hit hard when the Athletes had men on bags, while Evenson was able to keep the Onalaskans to five hits.

Chapman, the Athletes' new center-fielder, played his first game with the team Sunday, and contributed three of the La Crosse nine's seven runs, as well as starring in the defensive.

The Athletes announced today that next Sunday's game will be with the notable Blair nine, which has been cleaning up for several years. A tight game is expected. It will be played at Blair.

The score of yesterday's game follows:

SOX BEAT TIGERS IN WIERDEST OF SEASON'S GAMES

AMERICAN LEAGUE
Chicago 12; Detroit 9

DETROIT, Mich., July 24.—Chicago defeated Detroit, 12 to 9 Sunday in the wildest, wierdest game played here in a decade. Chicago made twenty hits and used five twirlers. The Tigers obtained fifteen safe drives but had four pitchers shattered. Ness was the star slugger with two singles, two doubles and a triple in six times at bat. The teams, arriving from the east Sunday afternoon, reached the ball park one hour late and then battled for two hours and forty-seven minutes under a broiling sun. Cobb was not able to play his regular position. A torn finger sustained in Boston was responsible.

The White Sox scored their winning runs in the eighth inning on successive hits by Collins, Jackson, Ness and Felsch. The score:

R.	H.	E.
Chicago	12	2
Detroit	9	0

Batteries—Williams, Danforth, Cl-votte, Wolfgang, Russell and Schalk; Boland, Cunningham, Dubuc, Daus and Baker, McKee.

St. Louis 5; Cleveland 2

CLEVELAND, O., July 24.—St. Louis defeated Cleveland in ten innings. Shotton scoring the winning run on his single. Austin's sacrifice and Miller's single. Klepfer then replaced Gould. He hit Sisler and made a wild pitch, after which Pratt singled, scoring Miller and Sisler. Both Groom and Wellman were effective for St. Louis. Score:

R.	H.	E.
St. Louis	5	0
Cleveland	2	0

Batteries—Groom, Wellman and Severdick; Gould, Klepfer and Daly.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

New York 3; Chicago 8

CHICAGO, July 24.—Chicago bunched hits off Benton and Anderson and easily won the final game of the series from New York on Sunday, 8 to 2. Brown had little trouble holding his opponents, and they bunched hits in only two innings. Score:

R.	H.	E.
New York	2	1
Chicago	8	0

Batteries—Benton, Anderson, Schupp and Rariden; Kercher, Brown and Fischer.

Boston 2; St. Louis 1

ST. LOUIS, Mo., July 24.—Rudolph had the best of a pitchers' battle with Steele, and Boston took the last game of the series with St. Louis here on Sunday, 2 to 1.

Steele allowed the
